

MASTER'S THESIS

Action repertoire of the 'Big Noise in the Street': bodily practice and spatial dissemination as social movement

Tam, Man Kei

Date of Award:
2000

Link to publication

General rights

Copyright and intellectual property rights for the publications made accessible in HKBU Scholars are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners. In addition to the restrictions prescribed by the Copyright Ordinance of Hong Kong, all users and readers must also observe the following terms of use:

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from HKBU Scholars for the purpose of private study or research
- Users cannot further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
- To share publications in HKBU Scholars with others, users are welcome to freely distribute the permanent URL assigned to the publication

Action Repertoire of the 'Big Noise in the Street' –
Bodily Practice and Spatial Dissemination as Social Movement

TAM Man Kei

A thesis submitted in partial fulfillment of requirements for the degree of Master of Philosophy

March 2000

Hong Kong Baptist University

Abstract

In the past, sociologists have contributed to an understanding of social movements in Hong Kong by adopting an organizational and structural approach. These studies assume an intermediate level of action that mediates the discontent of individuals and their affiliation to social groups and organizations. However, these studies fail to examine the concrete processes of such mediation in any meaningful detail. In other words, current approaches provide only limited explanatory power of how social movements develop. Such approaches fall short of providing any significant explanation about how and why specific social movements in Hong Kong come about.

This thesis tries to probe into the question of 'social actor' involved in collective actions in Hong Kong by a study of Big Noise in the Street. The Big Noise is formed by a group of people from diverse backgrounds: including inter alia social work, translation, law, civic group and organization, and theatre. This group constitutes what Melucci (1989) would regard as a submerged network, and practices 'street theatre' as its major form of social action. This thesis details the processes by which the participants have engaged in negotiating their visions and deeds. It further studies how the participants made sense of these negotiations in order to configure their social actions.

In the process, the author provides an analysis of these street performances within theoretical framework centering around 'body' and 'space' as analytical concepts. He also seeks to demonstrate the significance of these social actions in the current local social-political context by an ethnographic reconstruction of the street performances that this group of people stage on various occasions; including their activities on June 30, 1997, the day of Handover of Hong Kong to China.

In summary, the thesis supplements an organizational and structural model of social movements with a substantial ethnographic account of social action repertoire(s). As a result it lays down an empirical basis to formulate a bottom-up grounded theory. Such a theory takes the social actor who engages himself/herself in collective actions as its starting point. Such an exercise provides new levels of understanding of social movements in Hong Kong. In this sense, the thesis enriches the current discussions of social movements in Hong Kong.

Table of Content

Declaration	i
Abstract	ii
Acknowledgement	iv
Table of Content	v
List of Figures	ix
List of Abbreviations	x
Chapter 1 -- Introduction
Introduction -- The Study of Social Movements in Hong Kong vis-a-vis the Thesis of 'Stability'	1
Literature Review	6
Models of Society and Theory of Collective Action	6
Resource Mobilization Theory (RMT)	9
A Local Version of RMT -- T.L. Lui's Organizational Political Opportunity Structure Approach	14
Alternative to RMT -- Touraine's Sociology of Action	23
Massey and Patton's Theory of Space and Place	29
Turner and Schechner: the Concept of Performance	34
Chapter 2: Research Question, Methodology and Process
Introduction: First Encounter	44
Research Questions	46
Research Question 1	48
Research Question 2	50
Research Question 3	52
Research Question 4	52
Data Collection Process	53

A Brief Exposition of Events and Actions of the Big Noise in the Street Chronicle	54
The Amendment of the Public Order Ordinance	57
The Alternative Handover Bazaar	58
Anti-IMF-World-Band Demonstration and the Arrest of Five Protesters	60

Chapter 3: The Politics of Place – A Case Study of the Star Ferry Pier and the Statue Square

Introduction: In Search of a Place	63
The Star Ferry Pier Site	67
The Kowloon Disturbance of 1966 and the Changing Disciplinary Practice of the State over the Streets	69
Public Order Ordinance	74
Authorities over the Hong Kong Cultural Centre and the Ocean Terminal	78
The Statue Square -- Negotiating the Conception of 'Place' in the Alternative Handover Meeting on 16/6/1997	83
What Has Actually Taken 'Place'	86
Instituting Social Practices of the Alliance through Identifying a 'Person-in-Charge'	87
Response from the Performer of the Big Noise, and the Insight of a New Conception of 'Place'	88
Summary of the Chapter	89

Chapter 4: The Getting Together of the "Big Noise in the Street" – a Geneological Reconstruction

Introduction	90
Biographies of Core Participants of the "Big Noise"
Mun's Personal Trajectory: Frustrations and Hopes	93
Tong's Political Project of a Localized 'People's Theatre' – The Hong

Kong People's Theatre	98
A Musical Instrument or a Musician – the Story of Kammy	102
The Street is the Stage – Shirley's Tactics	105
Getting-Together of the "Big Noise" – Performance as Boundary Crossing and Collective Actions
Geneological Approach as Analytical Strategy	108
Issues of Knowledge and Power	110
Subjecthood and Subjectification	111
Performance, Boundary-crossing and Collective Actions	114
Street Performance as the Body Practice of the Big Noise	116
Understanding Bodily Practice in terms of Massey's 'Space-Time'	117
Summary of the Chapter	118
 Chapter 5: The Big Noise in Action – Street Performance in the Day of Handover
Introduction: The Alternative Handover Bazaar (大笪地藝墟)	121
The Spatial Imaginary of "Bazaar"	121
Big Noise's Performance in the Bazaar: Questions from a Conventional Organizer	124
Ethnographic Reconstruction of the Big Noise's Performance
Performance Sequence I: Training, Workshop and Rehearsal	126
Performance Sequence II: Performance	142
Performance Sequence III: Aftermath	169
Evaluating the Street Performance in terms of Spontaneity	171
 Chapter 6: Conclusion and Reflections
Theoretical Discussion	177
Action Reportoire of the Big Noise in the Street	177
Action Repertoire of the Big Noise in the Street as Manifestation of Social Movement	185

Theoretical / Empirical Conjuncture with Existing Research, and New Visions	188
Reflection on Methodology
When I Enter the Field as a Researcher...	189
Research Practices within the Field of Collective Action and Social Movement	191
Participatory Research Approach	193
Appendix I: An Ethnographic Reconstruction of the Performances Staged by the     British Colonial State on the Day of Handover	199
Bibliography	228
Curriculum Vitae	235